Sola Scriptura

Preface

This work is set down not as ornament, nor as art alone, but as witness.
It rises from wounds, from silence, from backlash and fire. It bears the weight of doctrine corrupted, of family struck, of pulpits hollow, of saints unarmed, of prayers answered and resisted. It is not invention, but Scripture refracted in cathedral form—stone on stone, Word upon Word.

Its cadence follows no creed but The Spirit; its voice is drawn from prophets, apostles, martyrs, and witnesses. It tolls with one Bell, not many; one Word, not shifting; one Christ, not diminished. It is offered not to replace the Scriptures, but to testify of them, that their timeless voice be lifted again in song and stone, eternal and glorious.

Sola Scriptura.

Movement I: Stone and Fire

Lyric: Beneath the black vault of the ages, where marble groans and echoes burn, the first stones are set— not by the hands of kings, but by the Word that thundered before light.	Doctrine of Creation and Revelation: The foundation of worship is not human kingship or invention, but God's Word which existed before light itself (John 1:1-3). This lyric anchors the cathedral in divine speech as the first stone.
Lyric: Cain brought his fruit, bright and clean, bloodless, convenient, without cost.	Cheap Worship vs. True Sacrifice: Cain's offering represents worship without cost, devoid of blood. This mirrors modern attempts to worship God on man's terms rather than His. (See also Cain and the Temple, 09/05/2025.)
Lyric: Abel's lamb bled on the altar, its cry still ringing across the centuries— fire consuming sacrifice, truth consuming falsehood.	Doctrine of Atonement: Abel's sacrifice foreshadows Christ, the Lamb slain for sins. Fire consuming the lamb symbolizes divine acceptance and truth's triumph over false worship.
Lyric: Thus it was written: cheap worship is cursed, market-stalls in the temple overturned, coins scattered by the whip of God.	Christ Cleansing the Temple: Jesus' rebuke of the moneychangers (John 2:13-17) echoes Abel vs. Cain: worship is not commerce. This lyric condemns commodified religion in every age.
Lyric: What costs nothing is nothing; what is not blood cannot stand.	Necessity of Blood: Hebrews 9:22 declares that without shedding of blood there is no remission. Worship that avoids cost denies the cross and cannot endure.
Lyric: And so twelve pillars rise, hewn from fire and stone, each bearing the weight of heaven's decree.	The Twelve Pillars: The number twelve recalls Israel's tribes and the apostles. These pillars symbolize doctrine itself, forged by God's decree and built for His glory.
Lyric: Not creed as law, not priest as pharaoh, but Scripture alone binding the conscience of man.	Sola Scriptura: Authority rests not in human creeds or clerical absolutism but in Scripture alone. This rejects priestly tyranny and elevates the Bible as sole rule of faith.

Lyric: Hear the toll of the bell— one bell, not many, ringing not for nations or tongues, but for the temple of God, that every knee should bend beneath its sound.

Unity of Proclamation: The ‘one bell’ symbolizes one authoritative Word of God, unifying nations under its sound. All knees bow before Scripture’s testimony. (See also One Bell, Movement VII).

Lyric: The first stone is flame: the Word. The second stone is sacrifice: Abel’s cry. The third stone is covenant: sealed in blood. The fourth stone is awe: worship as fire. The fifth stone is truth: unbent by empire.

Five Foundational Doctrines: Word (Sola Scriptura), Sacrifice (Atonement), Covenant (Baptism/Supper), Awe (Reverent Worship), Truth (Unyielding Witness). Together they form the first five doctrinal pillars.

Lyric: And so the pillars rise, line upon line, precept upon precept, until the cathedral stands unshaken, and all the world beholds its frame.

Isaiah’s Pattern: Isaiah 28:10 describes God’s teaching as ‘line upon line, precept upon precept.’ This lyric portrays doctrine as a cathedral built stone by stone until the world sees Christ’s truth embodied.

Movement II: The Hollow Cathedral

Lyric: The vaults of stone rose high as mountains, arches bent like ribs of giants. The organ breathed, and thunder shook the earth, pipes of bronze calling like trumpets at Sinai.

Reverent Worship: The cathedral architecture and organ echo Sinai's awe and the heavenly throne room. True worship reflects God's majesty, not human casualness.

Lyric: The hymns of saints rose in harmony, their voices weaving with the pillars of sound, and I believed the fire would descend.

Doctrine of Worship: Congregational hymnody joins with the organ as costly worship. Anticipation of God's Spirit descending shows the hope tied to reverent praise.

Lyric: But the pulpit broke into dust. The Word was silenced, replaced with a painted smile and a hollow tale.

Corruption of Preaching: When Scripture is silenced, pulpits collapse into hollow entertainment. The smile without truth represents Cain clothed as Abel.

Lyric: The preacher clothed in robes of Abel spoke with the tongue of Cain— no blood, no flame, only noise dressed in finery.

False Shepherds: Outward robes suggest legitimacy, but words without blood and flame (Christ and Spirit) reveal counterfeit preaching. Cain reappears in modern pulpits.

Lyric: He reached for stories not his own, plucking shadows from the marketplace of myth, fumbling them clumsily into Christ, until the truth itself was blurred— a parody of wisdom, an echo of glory in the wrong tongue.

Pop Culture Sermons: Borrowed myths and pop culture stories obscure Christ's clarity. This lyric condemns preachers who replace the gospel with cultural anecdotes.

Lyric: And the sanctuary fell silent, the thunder gone, the stone groaning under the weight of nothing.

Absence of God's Word: Without Scripture, beauty becomes hollow. The organ may play, but thunder is gone. Silence symbolizes divine absence.

Lyric: This is the hollow cathedral: where form survives but fire is gone, where beauty masks the absence of Word.

Doctrine of Dead Religion: Outward form without inward Spirit is lifeless religion. The cathedral becomes hollow when Word and Spirit depart.

Lyric: Cain ascends the pulpit clothed as Abel, and the sacrifice is fruit, not lamb.	Cheap Worship Returns: The modern pulpit repeats Cain’s error, offering fruit instead of blood. Worship without sacrifice is rejected. (See also Movement I, Cain’s offering).
Lyric: The pillars quake but do not fall, for the bell yet tolls, though muffled under robes of dust.	Enduring Word: Though pulpits fail, God’s Word endures. The bell tolls even when muffled, symbolizing Scripture’s persistence under corruption.

Movement III: The Jugular

Lyric: The serpent marked the line of battle— not the throne, not the steeple, but the hearth, the table, the cradle.

Spiritual Warfare in the Home: The serpent targets family, not just public power. The hearth, table, and cradle symbolize the core of discipleship, where covenant faith is transmitted.

Lyric: For from the hearth flows covenant fire, discipleship sung in lullabies, scripture whispered at dawn and dusk.

Covenantal Nurture: Parents pass faith through daily teaching and song (Deut 6:6-7). The hearth becomes altar, discipleship woven into ordinary life.

Lyric: Strike the father— the chain is broken. Strike the mother— the cord is severed. Strike the child— the inheritance is lost.

Attack on Generational Faith: Destroying parental roles or corrupting children cuts off the covenant line. The imagery shows Satan's strategy to sever faith at its source.

Lyric: The jugular is cut, and the body of faith bleeds out.

The Jugular Metaphor: Just as a jugular cut drains life, attacking family drains the church of strength. This is deliberate, not accidental, spiritual warfare.

Lyric: Marriage mocked, vows betrayed, bloodlines scattered, genders erased.

Modern Corruptions: The lyric highlights today's assaults—mockery of marriage, broken vows, fragmented families, gender confusion—as tools of spiritual war.

Lyric: What God bound, hell has torn; what Christ blessed, the serpent scorns.

Defiance of God's Order: Satan seeks to undo what God ordained, tearing apart Christ-blessed unions. This contrasts heaven's blessing with hell's scorn.

Lyric: The nurtured household is fortress and altar, its walls prayer, its food the Word.

Household as Fortress: A faithful family becomes stronghold of prayer and Word. Home is both sanctuary and training ground for discipleship.

Lyric: The shattered household is breach and ruin, discipleship drowned in blood and dust.

Household Collapse: When family fails, the breach opens. Discipleship perishes in chaos, and faith transmission falters.

Lyric: This is no accident of time, but strategy of war. The enemy does not waste his blade— he strikes the vein, he severs the line, he cuts where the lifeblood runs deepest.

Deliberate Strategy: Satan targets families intentionally, as cutting the jugular ensures defeat. This frames the family crisis as spiritual war, not cultural coincidence.

Lyric: Guard the table, guard the bed, guard the hearth where faith is fed.

Call to Guard: Christians are exhorted to defend family spaces—table (fellowship), bed (marriage), hearth (discipleship). These are the vital fronts in faith's war.

Lyric: For if the family falls, the church will starve; and if the jugular fails, the body is dead.

Church's Dependence on Family: Church vitality depends on strong households. Without family discipleship, the church bleeds out like a body without a jugular.

Movement IV: The Backlash

Lyric: For a time, the fire was near. Prayers rose and were answered in thunder, often before my lips had moved, often seasons before I knew to ask.

Immediate Presence of God: Prayer once brought immediate answers, showing a life ablaze with God's nearness. The lyric recalls seasons of spiritual vitality where faith flourished.

Lyric: The impossible bent its knee, and strangers sought counsel, friends found wisdom in a word, even greetings unwrapped the heart.

Spiritual Gifts: God gave discernment and wisdom for others, echoing the gifts of the Spirit (1 Cor 12). Faith produced fruit that blessed those around.

Lyric: It was a life ablaze, the victorious road, the cross as crown, the presence of God immediate and sure.

Victorious Christian Life: This reflects living in continual awareness of Christ, where the cross is seen as triumph, not defeat. God's presence was tangible.

Lyric: But the serpent did not sleep. The backlash fell, not on me, but on those I loved.

Backlash of Spiritual War: Satan's retaliation struck loved ones. The serpent punishes intercessors by targeting their circles, echoing Job's story.

Lyric: I prayed—and calamity struck. I read—and accident followed. I sought—and disaster burned another.

Paradox of Prayer: Instead of blessing, spiritual practice triggered suffering. This inversion deepened the crisis of faith, as obedience seemed to harm others.

Lyric: Illness, divorce, poverty, strife: each blow landed close, each wound torn from those beside me, until I could not bear to watch them bleed.

Shared Suffering: The suffering of loved ones became unbearable. This lyric shows the relational weight of spiritual backlash.

Lyric: So I withdrew. Closed the book, laid down the sword, stopped the prayers, stilled the voice.

Withdrawal: The believer retreats to protect others, abandoning practices of faith. This silence reflects despair but also exhaustion in battle.

Lyric: Better silence, better exile, than to call fire down upon my own.

Protective Silence: Faith feels like a weapon backfiring. Choosing exile over engagement highlights the cost of backlash in lived discipleship.

Lyric: And in the silence, the pulpits lied. They promised crowns without crosses, comfort without cost, victory without wounds.	False Prosperity Gospel: This line indicts modern preaching that denies suffering. Crowns without crosses mirror Satan's temptation of Christ.
Lyric: They named suffering as failure, backlash as myth, and left the saints alone in the dark.	Neglect of Teaching on Suffering: Churches deny the reality of backlash, abandoning saints. This lyric mourns leaders who leave sheep unprepared.
Lyric: This is the wound I carry still: not that I disbelieved, but that I could no longer watch those I loved bleed in my shadow.	Faith Wounded, Not Lost: The lyric distinguishes between disbelief and withdrawal. The wound is compassion-driven, not rebellion.
Lyric: The church was silent, the shepherds fled, and the watchmen slept upon the wall.	Failure of Leadership: Pastors and elders failed to guard. The image echoes Ezekiel's watchmen who slept instead of warning Israel.
Lyric: Yet my wound is not mine alone. For every age has known this silence, every century its sleeping guards, every generation its starving saints.	Shared Historical Pattern: This frames backlash as a recurring theme throughout church history. Silence of leaders and suffering of saints repeat across ages.
Lyric: The battle is ancient, the carnage certain, and still the church sings of triumph while leaving its soldiers unarmed.	Ancient Battle: The war is perennial, but churches often leave believers untrained for warfare. Triumph songs without armor expose saints to harm.

Movement V: The War of Witness

Lyric: From Adam's fall the curse was sown, a race depraved, a heart of stone.	Doctrine of Original Sin: Humanity inherits Adam's fall, becoming depraved with hardened hearts (Rom 5:12). This frames the universal need for salvation.
Lyric: Yet still the image, though marred by sin, shines faintly where God's breath has been.	Imago Dei: Despite sin, humanity retains God's image (Gen 1:27). This tension explains both human dignity and corruption.
Lyric: Temples of dust, yet temples still, bearing His mark, revealing His will.	Humanity as Temple: Even fallen, humans bear God's mark, intended to be His dwelling. The lyric reflects Paul's teaching that believers are temples of the Spirit.
Lyric: Election calls, not by our hand, but covenant sealed in blood-soaked sand.	Doctrine of Election: God's sovereign choice, sealed in Christ's blood, calls believers. Salvation rests not on human will but divine covenant.
Lyric: Yet still the dying must lift their eyes, to behold the bronze serpent raised to the skies.	Faith's Response: Salvation requires looking to Christ, prefigured in the bronze serpent (Num 21:9, John 3:14-15). Election and faith converge here.
Lyric: Covenant fire and human vow, both required, both binding now.	Covenant and Responsibility: God's covenant demands human response. Both divine promise and human vow sustain faith's binding nature.
Lyric: Discipleship first, the root of the tree, evangel's fruit flows naturally.	Discipleship Before Evangelism: True evangelism flows from mature discipleship. Rooted believers bear lasting fruit, unlike shallow growth.
Lyric: Mercy springs from a nourished heart, not from programs torn apart.	Authentic Mercy: Genuine compassion comes from hearts nourished in Word and Spirit, not institutional programs.
Lyric: No crown is won by slogans vain, but only through the cross and pain.	Cost of Discipleship: Christian victory requires cross-bearing, not empty slogans. This rejects triumphalism in favor of sacrificial discipleship.

Lyric: The church forgets its ancient charge, lays down the sword, builds temples large.	Neglect of Mission: Churches abandon warfare for institutional comfort. The lyric critiques megachurch consumerism.
Lyric: But the war is not of flesh and bone, nor thrones of men, nor courts of stone.	Spiritual Warfare: The true conflict is not political but spiritual (Eph 6:12). This shifts perspective from earthly to heavenly battleground.
Lyric: It is fought in prayer, in fast, in Word, in whispered cries by heaven heard.	Weapons of Warfare: Prayer, fasting, and Scripture are the believer's weapons. This recalls Christ resisting temptation with the Word.
Lyric: Not rituals, not formulas blind, but Spirit and truth in battle aligned.	True Worship Warfare: Victory comes through Spirit and truth, not empty ritual. This echoes John 4:24.
Lyric: The foe is real, the weapons old, yet sharper now than saints are told.	Reality of Spiritual Enemy: Satan is a real foe, and the ancient weapons of faith remain powerful. The lyric critiques churches that downplay this reality.
Lyric: Take up the cross, embrace the scar, for Christ is near where the wounded are.	Christ with the Suffering: Discipleship embraces scars. Christ draws near to the wounded, sanctifying suffering as witness.
Lyric: The war is witness, the witness war, twelve pillars stand, twelve trumpets roar.	Witness as Warfare: Evangelism and testimony are acts of war. The lyric invokes apocalyptic imagery of pillars and trumpets.
Lyric: No peace with hell, no truce with lies, till Christ returns and serpents die.	No Compromise: Christians cannot compromise with evil. Final victory awaits Christ's return, when serpents are destroyed.

Movement VI: The Twelve Pillars

Lyric: Stone I — The Word Scripture alone, the flame unquenched, binding the conscience, sharp as a sword.	Sola Scriptura: The Word of God alone binds the conscience, unquenched flame and sharp sword (Heb 4:12). Creeds may witness, but only Scripture commands.
Lyric: Creeds may witness, but cannot command; only the Bell of the Word shall stand.	Authority of Scripture: Creeds can testify but not rule. Only the Word itself bears ultimate authority. (See also Movement VII: One Bell).
Lyric: Stone II — The Worship Reverence deep, awe-filled and pure, psalms and hymns that shall endure.	Reverent Worship: Worship must be reverent and scriptural. Psalms and hymns anchor Christian song in truth and awe, not novelty.
Lyric: No fruit of Cain, no songs of dust, but sacrifice costly, in God we trust.	Costly Worship: Cain's error warns against cheap worship. True praise is costly, rooted in obedience, not in cultural trends.
Lyric: Stone III — The Covenant Baptism flows from blood and vow, a sign for children, yet binding now.	Covenant Sacraments: Baptism and the Lord's Supper are covenant signs. Baptism includes children as covenant heirs, yet also binds responsibility on them.
Lyric: The supper nourishes, awe and flame, symbol made real in Christ's own name.	The Lord's Supper: Communion is symbolic yet real—Christ nourishes believers spiritually when they partake in faith.
Lyric: Stone IV — The Warfare Christ shall come, the trumpet sound, the saints arise from broken ground.	Resurrection and Warfare: Spiritual battle climaxes with Christ's return. Trumpets recall apocalyptic war and resurrection hope (1 Cor 15:52).
Lyric: The war is not of flesh and bone, but powers unseen, the dark enthroned.	Spiritual Battle: The true fight is against spiritual powers, not human enemies (Eph 6:12).
Lyric: Stone V — The Mission Discipleship first, the root secure, fruit of mercy, faith mature.	Discipleship Root: Discipleship is the foundation. Mercy and maturity flow from rooted faith.

Lyric: No crown by slogans, no peace by law, but generations shaped in awe.	Generational Discipleship: Christianity advances through awe-shaped families and generations, not slogans or civil law.
Lyric: Stone VI — The Authority No Pharaoh-priests, no tyrant throne, the Shepherd's voice is Christ alone.	Authority of Christ: Church leaders must not become tyrants. Authority rests with Christ the Shepherd, not priestly domination.
Lyric: Rebuke the wolf, expose the fraud, for the flock belongs to God.	Church Discipline: Pastors protect the flock by rebuking error and guarding against wolves. The church belongs to God, not leaders.
Lyric: Stone VII — The Witness in the World Render to Caesar, yet bow to none; when kings defy, God's will be done.	Doctrine of Obedience and Defiance: Christians submit to civil government unless it contradicts God's will. Then civil disobedience becomes obedience to God.
Lyric: Persecution—our native ground, no truce with sin till Christ is crowned.	Persecution as Normal: The church's native soil is persecution. Faithfulness requires rejecting compromise with sin until Christ's return.
Lyric: Stone VIII — The Salvation Election sure, yet mercy wide, the cross for all, the elect supplied.	Doctrine of Salvation: Salvation is both particular and universal—Christ died for the world, but especially for the elect (1 Tim 4:10).
Lyric: Grace both resisted and overcome, the promise secure, yet the battle not done.	Grace and Perseverance: Grace can be resisted, yet God's promise secures the elect. Believers still battle until final glory.
Lyric: Stone IX — The Nature of Man From Adam's fall, corruption spread, yet image of God is never dead.	Anthropology: Humanity is both fallen (Rom 3:23) and retains God's image. This duality explains depravity yet human value.
Lyric: Sin as treason, works defiled, a temple broken, yet reconciled.	Sin as Treason: Sin is rebellion, not just failure. Works cannot save, but reconciliation through Christ restores the broken temple.
Lyric: Stone X — The Sanctification Spirit and striving, cross and pain, fruit of faith, the loss, the gain.	Sanctification: Growth in holiness requires Spirit and effort, cross-bearing and loss, but yields fruit in Christ.

Lyric: Suffering core, the path of Christ, no ease, no crown, but sacrifice.	Path of Suffering: Sanctification follows Christ's suffering path, rejecting false ease for true discipleship.
Lyric: Stone XI — The Unseen Realm Angels guard, and demons tear, the war is fought in fast and prayer.	Spiritual Realm: Angels and demons are active. Warfare is engaged through prayer and fasting, not charms or rituals.
Lyric: No charm, no spell, no ritual sign, but Spirit and Word, eternal line.	Rejecting Mysticism: True warfare is not magic but Spirit and Word, guarding against deception.
Lyric: Stone XII — The Endgame Heaven real, and hell aflame, resurrection seals the Name.	Last Things: Heaven and hell are real. Resurrection confirms Christ's Name and lordship.
Lyric: Judgment speaks, the deeds are known, new earth, new skies, Christ on the throne.	Final Judgment: God judges deeds, inaugurating new creation and enthroning Christ (Rev 20-21).

Movement VII: One Bell

Lyric: Through every age the voices warred, creeds divided, councils roared.	Creeds and Division: Church history is filled with disputes and councils. While creeds divide, the Word endures unbroken.
Lyric: Yet one voice rings, unbroken still, the Word of God, the sovereign will.	Unbroken Word: Despite division, Scripture's voice remains sovereign. God's Word is the enduring authority.
Lyric: Not many tongues in Babel's din, but one clear toll to call us in.	Babel vs. Unity: Babel scattered languages, but the Bell symbolizes one unifying Word that calls all nations to Christ.
Lyric: Where Father, Son, and Ghost are named, and LORD is carved in fire and flame.	Trinitarian Witness: The Word proclaims Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. 'LORD' written in fire recalls God's covenant Name.
Lyric: From temple court to martyr's pyre, from desert hymn to organ's choir— one Bell resounds, the tone of flame, unshaken Truth, unchanging Name.	Enduring Witness: Whether in temple, persecution, wilderness, or cathedral, one Bell resounds. The Truth and Name of God never change.
Lyric: The bell that tolled on Sinai's height, the bell that rang at Calvary's night, the bell that calls from empty grave, to free the lost, the damned, the slave.	Historical Continuity: The Bell unites Sinai, Calvary, and the Resurrection. God's Word spans covenant, cross, and empty tomb.
Lyric: Seventy times seven echoes blend, a harmony pure from first to end.	Scriptural Harmony: The seventy-times-seven echoes refer to recurring scriptural harmonies. The Bible's unity reveals divine orchestration.
Lyric: Verse to verse the witness rings, a psalm for prophets, priests, and kings.	Scripture's Internal Witness: Each verse harmonizes with others, serving all offices of God's people—prophet, priest, king.
Lyric: The Authorized tone, the ancient frame, proclaims one Christ, one cross, one Name.	Authorized Witness: A nod to the Authorized Version, the KJV, preserving ancient cadences. The Bell declares one Christ, one cross, one Name.

Lyric: Not shifting sands, nor tongues of clay, but fire-etched words that will not sway.	Immutability of Scripture: Unlike shifting translations or philosophies, God's fire-etched Word stands immutable.
Lyric: One pure tongue, unbroken still, the voice that bends the nations' will.	Unity of Tongue: The Word unites in one pure voice. Nations bow to Scripture's authority.
Lyric: A single bell, a single chord, one everlasting, living Word.	Christ the Word: The Bell points to the living Word, Christ, eternal and everlasting (John 1:1).
Lyric: No silver tongue, no gilded lie, no merchant's coin, no Caesar's cry.	Purity of Witness: God's Word resists corruption from rhetoric, commerce, or politics. Scripture remains above manipulation.
Lyric: But one Bell pure, from age to age, its echoes carved on Scripture's page.	Scripture Preserved: The Bell's sound is inscribed in the Bible, enduring through every age.
Lyric: Hear, O nations, hear its sound— the cornerstone shakes the ground.	Universal Call: The Bell calls nations, proclaiming Christ the cornerstone (Eph 2:20). His foundation shakes the earth.
Lyric: One Bell rings, the church is warned: the Bride must wake, the King returns.	Prophetic Warning: The Bell warns the church to awaken and prepare for the King's return.
Lyric: One Bell, One Lord, One Word, One Sword— forever Christ, forever Word.	Climactic Unity: This refrain unites all themes—Bell, Lord, Word, Sword—culminating in Christ as eternal Word.

Movement VIII: The Endgame

Lyric: The Bell resounds, the heavens break, the earth convulses, the nations quake.	Apocalyptic Judgment: The Bell heralds final judgment, echoing biblical images of cosmic upheaval (Rev 6:12).
Lyric: The trumpet sounds, the graves release, the Judge descends, the war shall cease.	Resurrection and Judgment: The trumpet signals resurrection (1 Cor 15:52). Christ descends as Judge to end the war.
Lyric: The books are opened, the deeds are known, every secret brought to throne.	Final Judgment Books: Revelation 20:12 portrays books opened, revealing every deed. Nothing remains hidden.
Lyric: The proud laid bare, the kings undone, the voice of God eclipses sun.	Humbling of the Proud: Earthly rulers fall before divine authority. God's voice eclipses all light and power.
Lyric: Hell unveiled, its fires roar, the damned cast out, returned no more.	Doctrine of Hell: Hell's reality is unveiled, with eternal exclusion from God's presence. Finality is emphasized.
Lyric: No shadow left, no mercy feigned, eternal torment, justice claimed.	Justice of Hell: Hell is not arbitrary but divine justice. No pretense of mercy remains; torment is eternal.
Lyric: Heaven unveiled, the Bride adorned, her garments pure, her wounds transformed.	Doctrine of Heaven: Heaven is revealed as the Bride (Rev 21:2). Saints' wounds are healed, their garments purified.
Lyric: The Lamb enthroned, the scars still shine, redemption crowned in light divine.	Christ Enthroned: Christ reigns as Lamb, bearing scars of redemption. Glory is defined by sacrifice.
Lyric: The old world burns, its curse erased, the new earth dawns in holy grace.	New Creation: The curse of sin is erased. A new heaven and new earth replace the old (Rev 21:1).
Lyric: The sea gives up, the sky remade, the King enthroned, the nations swayed.	Universal Renewal: Sea and sky yield to new creation. Christ reigns over all nations.

Lyric: No death remains, no tear is shed, the saints rise up, the curse is dead.	End of Death: Death is destroyed (Rev 21:4). Suffering ends as the curse is fully reversed.
Lyric: Forevermore, the temple stands, not built by man, but Spirit's hands.	Eternal Temple: The final temple is God Himself among His people (Rev 21:22). No human building is needed.
Lyric: Stone by stone, the pillars rise, now crowned beneath eternal skies.	Completion of the Pillars: The cathedral is consummated in eternity, its stones perfected beneath new skies.
Lyric: One cornerstone, the Christ adored, forever King, forever Lord.	Christ the Cornerstone: Christ is eternal cornerstone (Eph 2:20), adored as King and Lord forever.
Lyric: One Bell tolled, the war is won, Alpha rises, Omega done.	Victory in Christ: The Bell's final toll proclaims Christ's triumph. Alpha and Omega (Rev 22:13) signify completion.
Lyric: The Bride awakes, the Kingdom come, forever Christ, the only One.	Consummation: The Bride (Church) awakens, the Kingdom fully comes. Christ alone reigns eternally.
